To whom it may concern:

I am writing today on behalf of the PTAA charter school. As a parent, I recognize the need that our children have for high-quality educational options. This is especially true for our children in high-needs zip codes. Many students across this district are essentially trapped in low performing schools with nowhere else to turn. And while there are a small number of magnet programs, it is extremely difficult to be admitted to these schools. As I am sure you are aware, there are 25,000 kids on waitlists for charter schools across this state. Families are begging for better schools in their neighborhoods.

As the president of Nevadas only parent union, I hear from parents and families everyday who are asking for more options so they can give their children the best education possible.

You have the opportunity to give that to them today. Today you can put whatever differences you have aside, and allow a proven charter school the opportunity to serve our most under-served kids.

Thank you,
