

Mallory Cyr

Mallory is a native Nevadan with a personal investment in charter schools as the parent of an enrolled student. She attended Clark High School's math and science magnet program and believes in offering a variety of educational environments from which parents and students can choose to meet their needs. She is also a licensed foster parent within Clark County and recognizes that several households navigating the child welfare system choose to enroll their students in charter schools.

Mallory has worked professionally in fields ranging from program management for a non-profit to project management for a large resort developer. She most recently supported workforce development initiatives at HELP of Southern Nevada and worked directly alongside residents at Shannon West Homeless Youth Center while they completed their high school education.

Mallory has a strong desire to make a positive impact in both public education and the improved welfare of children in our state.
