To whom it may concern,

I am mother of three, 12 year old, 6 year old and 4 year old. I have two jobs and my husband is working full time from home.

Virtual learning left my 6 year old disintegrate in front of me. She had started this year in first grade but I couldn't take it anymore and had her start private school. She is now repeating Kindergarten but she is learning again and happy. My 6th grader, who was normally an A student, was receiving D's and F's. There are too many distractions at home; as much as I try to eliminate them, we are still working out the ins and outs of Virtual learning with her since I cannot afford private school for all my children.

Our children are suffering while much of the country is resuming in person learning. This is going to prove to be a huge disadvantage in the years to come.

I trust our administrators to create an in person/ hybrid learning plan to help our students catch up but we must act sooner than later to close this gap in learning.

Sincerely,
Genevieve Langlois
6th Grade Parent
